United Way of Larimer County Announces Equity & Excellence Cohort Program for Grassroots and Community-Led Organizations

FORT COLLINS, CO – United Way of Larimer County \(UWLC\) will select up to 10 local leaders from grassroots and community-led social impact organizations to participate in its first Equity & Excellence Cohort program from June–December 2022. This opportunity includes a variety of resources and support that will prepare participants for successful grant seeking and management, as well as general operating funds for their organizations.

The program was created in response to a critical opportunity which emerged during the COVID-19 pandemic, when partnerships between public, private, and nonprofit organizations enabled an effective, efficient response to community needs. The essential role of grassroots and community-led organizations (GCLOs) from historically marginalized communities was especially apparent as our community battled identity-based disparities in access to services and socioeconomic, education, and health outcomes. However, as state and local agencies reviewed applications for pandemic-related funding support from Larimer County human services providers, it became clear that many grassroots and community-led organizations would benefit from in-depth support to develop the organizational infrastructure needed to successfully compete for and manage government funds.

The seven-month Equity & Excellence Cohort Program will provide group training and 1:1 technical assistance from an experienced consultant with expertise in securing and managing federal funds. Participants will meet with the consultant at the start of the program to determine the specific areas of focus to be included in the curriculum to ensure it meets their unique needs. United Way of Larimer County's Nonprofit Excellence program staff will provide additional support and will work closely with United Way's partners in state, county, and municipal governments and private grantmaking organizations to ensure alignment with standards and requirements applicable to the participating organizations.

"This cohort is such an exciting opportunity – not only for our nonprofit sector, but for our entire community," said Morgan Vanek, Director of Nonprofit Excellence at United Way of Larimer County. "The benefits of investing in grassroots and community-led organizations are clear, and we are thrilled about the opportunity to leverage our funding through this innovative program and support these organizations on their path to positive, sustainable impact in Larimer County."

There is no cost to participate in the cohort. Because many GCLOs are operated by unpaid volunteers or part-time staff, participants will be compensated to reduce any potential financial barriers to participation. United Way of Larimer County has also allocated $120,000 through its Equity & Excellence Fund to provide general operating grants for selected organizations.
